NEW CASTLE, Ind., Nov. 19 .- The citzens of New Castle take great pride in the fact that one of her greatest industries, the South Park Floral Company, received the world's first prize in the great flower show : t Kansas City on Monday for the best exhibit of American Beauty This company took many first prizes at the recent Indianapolis flower show and also at the Chicago show. The South Park Company has one of the largest greenhouse plants in the world and it makes a specialty of American Beauty roses, for the culture of which the soil and climate here seem peculiarly adapted. The flowers which were sent to Kansas City and which took the prize over exhibits from all parts of the country, were beauties indeed.

MAYOR BOOKWALTER AND THE BOARDS DISCUSS FINANCES.

All Departments Will Be Compelled to Use Close Economy-Other Municipal Affairs.

The heads of the city departments met with Mayor Bookwalter yesterday afternoon in the first regular cabinet meeting of the new administration. The puropse of the conference was to enable the mayor, from general reports rendered by the presidents of the city boards, to obtain an understanding of the exact condition of affairs now existing in the departments. The business considered was chiefly in regard to the finances of the departments. From the reports submitted by Mr. Megrew of the Board of Works, Mr. Keller of the Board of Safety, Dr. House of the Board of Health, Controller Bruenig and City Engineer Nelson has found that there will have to be pinching and squeezing to pull the departments through the rest of the year with the meager amounts credited the various departments in the city treasury. Through an appropriation of He Will Be a Republican Candidate $7,600, which will probably be made at the next Council meeting for the use of the Board of Works, that part of the city administration will be relieved in a measure, but the Board of Health and the Board of Safety must struggle through without help, as the mayor stated yesterday afternoon that it is not likely any more appropriations will be asked for before the end of the We are exceedingly well prepared to meet the growing demand year. Mr. Keller, of the Board of Safety, stated that the board will be unable to make purchases regarded as necessary on account of a practically depleted appropriation. He said that with rigid economy the department would have enough for current expenses. The Board of Health is in need of more money, as its appropriation s at low-water mark, but it, too, will endeavor to get through the year with what is now on hand. The boards reported what has been done in their departments since the incoming of the administration. The meeting was of an informal nature.

ATTITUDE OF DEMOCRATS.

They Will Support Appropriation Ordinance, but Not Bond Ordinance.

The Democratic members of the Council will be given another chance to save the credit of the city of Indianapolis. Mayor Bookwalter stated yesterday that he would call another special meeting of the Council for a night in the early part of next week. At that meeting the appropriation ordinance will be introduced for the third time in a new form. It will have its first reading then, and another special meetrecently from the Postal Department in | ing will be called to allow its passage. The situation has developed into a "show

The Mayor is of the opinion that the smoke nuisance could be abated considerably if more care were used in firing furnaces. If care is used by stokers he thinks the volume of smoke would be lessened greatly.

CHARLES REEVES ARRESTED.

He Had Possession of Diamonds but a Short Time.

Charles Reeves, who claims Arlington, Ind., as his home, when arrested yesterday by Detectives Asch and Wallace and Bicycle Policeman Griffin tried to secrete in his mouth a ring and a diamond brooch which he was accused of stealing. Alonzo Layman, a railway man, met him in a poolroom. Reeves asked him to play a game of pool. Layman said he did not have time, as he wanted to go to a jewelry store to have a diamond reset. Reeves accompanied him. Layman made arrangements to return for the articles at 4 o'clock. A few minutes before Reeves entered Marcy's jewelry store and inquired for the ring and brooch, giving the name of Layman. They were given to him, and when the owner appeared he was told they had been taken out only a few minutes before. Reeves was found later at Illinois and Georgia streets.

While this matter has not yet been accomplished, it is said that it will be done shortly.

The work of the grievance committee is one that is watched with interest by the members at this time. The cases to be brought before the committee this year, however, are few, and will likely be dis posed of without much trouble, it is said. The report of Grand Scribe Leedy corresponded with that of the Grand Patriarch in matters pertaining to the increase in the number of encampments. There were eighteen encampments instituted during the year; four old encampments that had been allowed to droop were resuscitated: Lake Michigan Encampment, of Michigan City, became defunct during the year and its effects were turned over to the Grand Scribe. During this year there has been paid into the office of the Grand Scribe $6,698.46, which, added to a balance of $1,854.35 from last year, makes a total sum of $8,552.81. Mr. Thorp said the private fortune of Mr Davis and his sister and brother had been swallowed up in making the settlement with the bank. Mr. Thorp said further that a good many errors in bookkeeping had been found in the bank. One in particular amounted to $5,000 against Mr. Davis Mr. Thorp said that these facts would all be used in Mr. Davis's defense in the event that the case comes to trial. Mr. Davis has hopes that the indictment will be nollied since no one has lost anything or his account except himself and his family. Attorney Smiley N. Chambers, of this city, has been retained as Mr. Davis's counsel and recently made a trip to Washington, D. C., in the interest of his client.

LOUIS SMITH AND GEORGE ROSS SPAR TEN ROUNDS.

The Former, a Columbia Club Waiter, Given the Decision-The Preliminary Bouts.

Surrounded by about 30,000 cubic feet of the densest kind of cigar (good and bad), cigarette and pipe smoke, 125 men, repre senting all walks in life, sat in a hall or Indiana avenue last night and witnessed four glove contests. Two of them were very tame, while the other two were lively enough. Police Superintendent Taffe, Capt. Hyland, Sergeant Giblin and a few patrolmen were present as sightseers and incidentally to caution the boxers to refrain from any knockouts. There were no knockouts, and not once was it necessary for the officers to warn the men after they

The affair was given by colored talent. Louis Smith, a waiter at the Columbia Club, was the moving spirit, for he was one of the contestants in the main bout, his opponent being George Ross, another colored lad who is several shades darker than Smith. Ross also possesses a physique that towers several inches above Smith's and a reach that is much longer, but these advantages did not prevent Smith from break-the tenth round Referee Roloff gave the lecision to Smith. The bout was very satisfactory throughout the ten rounds. The men rested nearly every other round, but they enlivened the boxing sufficiently to maintain interest in the contest to the end. Smith had a peculiar manner of peeking at his opponent from out the corner of his left eye while he held his head at almost a right angle to his adversary. This peculiarity of the little boxer caused many a laugh, but it was soon forgotten when he began to punch his

Smith began using his left effectively in the second round, and throughout the remainder of the fight he swung it and jabbed Ross on the face, neck and body. But few times during the ten rounds did Ross land effective blows, Smith using his guard to good advantage and showing much cleverness in ducking and side-stepping the leads of his opponent. Smith also had a very tantalizing way of rushing in and landing heavily with his left

Smith landed right and left on Ross, and with a left swing sent him through the ropes. Ross was back in the ring again in a few seconds to receive more punishment. As the round ended Smith sent several severe blows to the face, and Ross's nose and cheeks showed signs of the severe punishment. Smith was given the decision. The main bout was preceded by three preliminary contests. The first one was between Fred Elliott and Carl Montgomery for four rounds. Elliott received the worst I. The second, between Fred Blackburn and "Sly Coon," a colored fighter from Cincinnati, was very tame, and no decision was given. The third bout, between "Kid" Blackburn and Jim Glasgow, known as the Louisville "fancy man." was a lively one. The first round was slow, Jessup in his reports this morning will but at the opening of the second round Blackburn rushed Glasgow and landed a hard left upper cut on the pit of the stomach and a right on the jaw. the University of Indianapolis team of the kind of playing employed by the Kentucky University students in their game here last week, I wish to make some suggestions on the other side. I attended the game myself and saw the character of the playing. Although there were one or two altercations over slugging and offside playing, the offenders were invariably U. of I. men. One U. of I. man, Judah was ruled off the field for slugging, and was the only man to suffer such penalty. As for off-side playing, Captain France, of the U. of I., was repeatedly guilty, so that thirty yards were given K. U. during the game, twenty of them being in succession, The Kentucky University boys have never before been accused of ungentlemanly playing. The Louisville and Knoxville papers, and, indeed, the press in general, have complimented us very much upon the character of our men. This being the first accusation, it is a source of great regret to ing down his opponent's guard and landing me that it should come from Indianapolis, especially since all of us here had done so much to make the stay of the Indianapolis boys as pleasant as possible. As to the forward pass, I saw very clearly the first of these double passes, and I can vouch for the fact that it was at least two yards a backward pass, though at an angle. This was the play which so astonished the opposing team and won the first touchdown. I should not make any reply to the article cited had I not seen the game and been able to bear witness as to the character of the playing. BURRIS A. JENKINS

COURTS IN CONFLICT.

Judge Grosscup Restrains the Illinois

Tax Equalization Board. CHICAGO, Nov. 19 .- Judge Grosscup, of sent four right and left blows to the face | the United tSates District Court, issued an ex parte injunction to-day restraining the Smith sent in a few blows, while Ross | State Board of Equalization from assesslanded a few times on the body. In the ing the franchises of the Union Traction delivered a straight left jab on Ross's face and the Chicago Consolidated Traction Company. This step was taken by the traction companies with a view of combating the ruling of Judge Thompson, of the State court, who issued a writ of mandamus requiring the State Board of Equalization to assess the capital stock of these two and other Chicago corporations. By the decision the federal and state courts are brought to the verge of conflict. and the Board of Equalization is brought up standing at the fork of the road, either way leading toward a jail. Acting under the State Supreme Court's decision, Judge Owen P. Thompson, of the Illinois Circuit Court, has ordered the board to make forthwith a capital stock assessment for 1:00, including therein the traction companies, and to return the assessment not later than Friday or go to jail. If the board obeys the order it will be in contempt of the United States Circuit Court for violating Judge Grosscup's temporary injunction. If the board obeys the Grosscup order it will be in contempt of the Illinois Circuit Court for violating Judge Thompson's mandamus writ.
